Overview

PSE's mission relies on our commitment to the equity ecosystem, defined as a network of organizations and individual champions who make decisions, utilize resources, and work collectively to advance a mutual agenda for just inclusion. For a decade, PSE has planted seeds in the equity ecosystem across the Southeast US and beyond through training, grassroots organizing, strategic communications and re-granting. Our ecosystem model has proven an excellent return on investment for our projects and programs. With a mission unparalleled in the region and a deep familiarity with Southeast communities most impacted by systemic racism, PSE has developed a community engagement methodology based on the cultural and political conditions of the region, effectively engaging and investing in residents rather than relying on extractive and transactional processes.

Primary Stakeholders

Through the stewardship of this real property, PSE and Just Equity strive to support entrepreneurs of color and like-minded organizations engaged in the work of equity, to ensure that the community of Castleberry Hill retains a pathway to opportunity for these primary stakeholders, and to ensure that these stakeholders' long-standing historical presence and importance in the community is retained as it experiences drastic market escalation and gentrification.
